

James L. Jerneygan, of South Bend, Ind., and Ezekiel S. Smith, were the attorneys for defendants, the last named being the attorney of record.

The case was continued several times, and finally came to trial in the latter part of 1850. In January, 1851, it was concluded, the jury disagreeing. The principal witness for the prosecution, Jonathan Cruise, of South Bend, was arrested on the charge of perjury as soon as he left the stand, and the jury before which he was tried, stood nine to three for his conviction.

At the disagreement of the jury, D. T. Nicholson paid the sum of $1,000 to clear himself and Ishmael Lee. This virtually settled the cause of the Kentucky slave-owners against the Michigan Abolitionists. The total costs of the case, which amounted to about $3,000, were borne by the several defendants, Nicholson included. The number of witnesses subpoenaed by both sides was somewhere from forty to fifty, and many depositions were taken, especially by the plaintiffs. The witnesses for the defense charged, as a rule, only the amount of their actual expenses. Had they received the legal fees, the costs of the suit would have been much larger.

The sum of $1,000 paid by Mr. Nicholson, was according to rumor, appropriated by Abner Pratt, Esq., as his fee in the case, and the slave-owners never received any portion of it. And so ended, as far as the Cass County people were immediately interested, this "celebrated case." The Kentucky raid, however, had other effects than those locally observable. With the Van Zant case in Ohio, it had a strong bearing upon the passage of the fugitive slave law of 1850, which, in turn, brought slavery into a more pronounced position as a political issue, and powerfully influenced in one way or another all subsequent legislation upon the "peculiar institution."

CHAPTER XVIII.

CASS COUNTY IN THE WAR OF THE REBELLION.

The First Company of Soldiers raised in the County—Its Organization—Attached to the Forty-second Illinois Infantry—Brief History of that Regiment—Roster of the Officers and Men of the Forty-second, from Cass County—Other Full Companies from the County—The Sixth Michigan Infantry—Brief Histories of the Twelfth and Nineteenth Infantry Regiments, with Roster of Men from Cass—The First Michigan Cavalry.

THE first demonstration made in Cass County toward taking a part in the armed protection of the Union, was made at Dowagiac by the Cass County Guards, upon the 22d of April, 1861, at which time they elected officers, "voted to drill every Saturday afternoon until accepted in the service of the State," and passed a resolution in favor of publishing the proceedings of their meetings "in the Dowagiac Daily Union and other papers in the county friendly to the stars and stripes."* The officers elected were: Captain, D. McOmber; First Lieutenant, W. N. S. Townsend; Second Lieutenant, N. H. De Foe. The remainder of the officers chosen were as follows: L. Andrews, First Sergeant; L. Roberts, Second Sergeant; James Wiley, Third Sergeant; Joseph Johnson, Fourth Sergeant; L. H. Barney, First Corporal; Charles Root, Second Corporal; B. F. Griffin, Third Corporal; Edward Herson, Fourth Corporal.

This company singularly enough became a portion of an Illinois regiment. The company was re-organized upon the 18th of May, but without essential change of officers, and was then the twenty-seventh company organized in the State. They remained in barracks at Dowagiac six weeks: were assigned to the Fourth Regiment Michigan Volunteer Infantry, which was in process of formation at Adrian; subsequently changed to the Sixth, and before they could report, the officers were ordered to Detroit for military schooling, and the privates ordered to disperse. An effort was made to have these orders rescinded, but it was unavailing, and refusing to comply with the Governor's requirements, the members of the company, by a unanimous vote, decided to proffer themselves for enlistment in the Douglas Brigade, then organizing in Chicago. This brigade was not accepted until after the first battle of Bull Run, and the company, which had gone to Chicago in June, had returned home; but upon the 26th of July, 1861, they were mustered in at Dowagiac by Capt. Webb, United States Mustering Officer, as Company E, of the Forty-second Illinois Volunteer Infantry, and left for Chicago, where they remained ten weeks.

We herewith present a condensed history of the regiment:

THE FORTY-SECOND ILLINOIS VOLUNTEER INFANTRY.†

This regiment was mustered into service at Chicago, Ill., July 22, 1861. Its first movement was to St. Louis, Mo., September 21, 1861. October 18, it arrived at Tipton, Mo., and was assigned to Col. Palmer's brigade. October 25, it was at Warsaw, from whence it moved, November 1, to Springfield, arriving there November 4, after a march of ninety-seven miles. December 13, they went into winter quarters at Smithton, Mo., where they remained until February 3, 1862, when they marched to St. Charles, Mo. February 20, they were at Fort Holt, Kentucky; Columbus was occupied March 4, and March 10 saw them on their way to Island No. 10, where they were engaged until its surrender, April 11, 1862, at which date they joined Gen. Pope's army, and moved to Fort Pillow the 14th. Hamburg, Tenn., was the next point in the march, arriving there April 22. They were engaged at the siege of Corinth, Miss. May 19, 1862, we find them engaged in battle at Farmington, Miss., where the regiment lost two killed, twelve wounded, and three missing. After this fight, they were in the advance, in pursuit of the rebel army, under Beauregard. From July 25 to September 3, they were occupying Courtland, Ala., when they left for Nashville, Tenn., at which place they arrived September 13, having had on their march a battle at Columbia, Tenn., in which they lost one man.

They were in Nashville during the siege, and on December 20, 1862, marched out on the Nolensville pike six miles. December 16, engaged in the Murfreesboro campaign. December 31, 1862, they were in the battle of Stone River, losing 22 killed, 116 wounded, and 85 prisoners.

March 5, 1863, engaged in the pursuit of Van Dorn to Columbia, returning to camp at Murfreesboro the 14th; entered upon the Tullahoma campaign June 24; camped at Bridgeport, Ala., July 31. September 2, engaged in the Chattanooga campaign. Marched to Alpine, Ga., thence to Trenton, and crossed Lookout Mountain; was in the battle of Chickamauga, Ga., losing 28 killed, 128 wounded, and 28 prisoners, and retreated to Chattanooga. At the battle of Mission Ridge, November 28, 1863, the Forty-second was on the skirmish line during the whole engagement, losing 5 killed and 40 wounded. Pursued the enemy to Chickamauga Creek and returned.

The East Tennessee campaign was entered upon November 28, 1863. December 27, 1863, camped at Stone's Mill.

January 1, 1864, the regiment re-enlisted and became a veteran volunteer organization. Dandridge was the next point, arriving there January 15. February 2, arrived at Chattanooga. February 21, moved by rail for Chicago. March 2, the men received a thirty days furlough, returning April 2, and arriving in Chattanooga April 27, 1864. May 3, they began the Atlanta campaign and were engaged in battles at Rocky Face Ridge, Resaca, Adairsville, New Hope Church, Pine Mountain, Kenesaw Mountain, Peach Tree Creek, Atlanta, Jonesboro and Lovejoy Station, encamping at Atlanta September 8. Total loss of the campaign, 20 killed, 89 wounded and 7 prisoners.

Moved, September 25, by rail, to Bridgeport, Ala., and to Chattanooga October 19; then marched to Alpine, Ga., and returned October 30.

Moved, by rail, to Athens, Ala., then marched to Pulaski, Tenn., arriving there November 5. Began retreating for Nashville November 22, 1864, and on the march fighting the rebels at Spring Hill and Franklin, and losing 24 killed, 95 wounded, and 30 prisoners. Arrived at Nashville December 1. The battle of Nashville occurring the 15th and 16th, the regiment engaged and lost 2 killed and 11 wounded; then pursued the enemy eighty-two miles, and camped at Lexington, Ala., December 31, 1864. January 6, 1865, they were in Decatur, Ala., remaining there until April 1, 1865. They went to Nashville, going through Bull's Gap and Blue Springs. June 15, 1865, they went by rail to Johnsonville, Tenn., and thence by water to New Orleans. July 18, they proceeded to Port Lavaca, Tex., and went on post duty. December 16, 1865, they mustered out and left Indianola, Tex., the 20th. Left New Orleans the 24th and arrived at Camp Butler January 3, 1866. January 10, 1866, received final payment and discharge.

SIXTH MICHIGAN INFANTRY.

The second company, organized in the County, was Company D of the Sixth Michigan Infantry. This company was organized at Dowagiac, with Charles E. Clarke, as Captain; Frederick J. Clarke, First Lieutenant; James Ellis, Second Lieutenant, and William H. Gage, Orderly Sergeant. The Captain of the company arose to the position of Colonel,* James Ellis to the rank of Captain, and Orderly Sergeant Gage to that of Lieutenant. First Lieutenant Clarke became acting Captain, and was killed at Port Hudson.†

The history of the Sixth Regiment is briefly as follows:

It was what was known as a "camp instruction regiment;" was organized in the summer of 1861, and was rendezvoused at Kalamazoo. The commissioned officers were selected by the Governor, and they in turn selected the non-commissioned officers of their respective companies, and both commissioned and non-commissioned officers then went into a camp of instruction at Detroit, where they were thoroughly drilled for nearly two months. The regiment left Kalamazoo for the East, August 30, 1861, with 944 men, and remained in Baltimore for nearly six months on garrison duty. On February 22, 1862, the regiment went to Newport News (Fortress Monroe), and, on the 4th of March, left with other regiments for New Orleans, embarking just in time to encounter a terrific gale off Cape Hatteras. The Sixth was the first Union regiment which occupied New Orleans in the day time (a few had entered in the night). On the 9th of May, the regiment, with its brigade, proceeded up the Mississippi, taking possession of various places, but meeting with no opposition until it arrived at Warrenton, a small place near Vicksburg. The

*Colonel Charles E. Clarke, formerly of Dowagiac, is a native of Lebanon, Conn. For several years prior to his residence at Dowagiac, he was Captain of steamboats on the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers. In the summer of 1861, he was commissioned Captain of a company in the Sixth Regiment of Michigan Infantry (afterward made Heavy Artillery) and, by successive promotions, became its Colonel. He served with his regiment in its campaigns and battles under Gens. Butler and Banks, in the Lower Mississippi Valley; commanded the principal part of his regiment in the successful battle of Baton Rouge, though then only a Captain, the Regiment Officers being absent in New Orleans; and was in command of Fort Morgan, Mobile Bay, after its capture. He was mustered out with his regiment, at Jackson, Mich., in the summer of 1865; was soon after commissioned as Captain in the regular army, with the brevet rank of Major, chiefly "for gallant and meritorious services;" served in the regular army, chiefly as commandant of posts in New Mexico and Dakota, and was transferred to the retired list at his own request in 1880.

†First Lieutenant (and Acting Captain) Frederick J. Clarke, was a native of Rochester, N. Y., son of Joseph B. Clarke and nephew of Col. Charles E. Clarke. He was a printer; was commissioned First Lieutenant in his uncle's company of the Sixth Michigan Infantry, on the organization of the regiment, in the summer of 1861; became Acting Captain on the promotion of his uncle to the majority, and was killed whilst leading his company in a desperate assault upon a portion of the rebel fortification of Port Hudson, La., May 27, 1863. His body was recovered from under the continued rebel fire, by his uncle, assisted by the drummer boy of the regiment and two colored soldiers, and removed to and buried in the National Military Cemetery at Baton Rouge.

enemy was fortified there and refused to surrender. They were not dislodged, and on the 5th of June the brigade returned to Baton Rouge, where they encamped the next day. On the 20th of July, six companies of the regiment, in command of Col. Clark (T. S.), made a raid in the direction of Camp Moore, sixty miles eastward of Baton Rouge, for the purpose of capturing Charles M. Conrad, who had been Secretary of War under President Fillmore, and a number of other rebels. At Benton's Ferry, a rebel force was encountered, and a running fight ensued. On August 5, while Baton Rouge was being heavily attacked by the rebel forces under Breckinridge, the regiment, then under command of Col. Charles E. Clarke, received and repulsed the principal attack, which, had it been successful, would have resulted in the loss of a large quantity of artillery and stores. The loss of the regiment was twenty killed, forty-three wounded and six missing. Capt. Clarke, Acting Lieutenant Colonel, and Lieut. Clarke, were especially mentioned for meritorious action in the reports of their superior officers. After the evacuation of Baton Rouge by the Union forces on the 20th of August, 1862, the Sixth was stationed at Metairie Ridge, guarding one of the approaches to New Orleans. Owing to the unhealthiness of the locality only 755 men were fit for duty when they arrived at New Orleans December 6, but those sick soon recovered there. On the 14th of January, 1863, the regiment participated in an expedition, under Gen. Weitzel, to Bayou Teche, which destroyed the rebel gunboat Cotton. On the 23d of March, it attacked the rebels at Ponchatoula; was engaged with the enemy April 3, at Amite River; at Tickfaw River on the 12th, and again at Amite River on the 12th of May. On a later date, the Sixth made a raid up the Jackson Railroad, destroying the enemy's camp at Pangipaho, capturing sixty prisoners and appropriating or destroying property valued at $400,000. The regiment then returned to New Orleans, and upon the 23d, as a part of Gen. Banks' force, arrived in front of Port Hudson, and was placed in one of the most exposed positions. On the 27th, the Sixth was engaged in the celebrated and deadly assault on Port Hudson, in which a third of its men were killed. The regiment in this finely fought combat, was under the command of Col. T. W. Sherman (who should not be confounded with Gen. William T. Sherman). The siege of Port Hudson followed. On the 5th of June, the regiment took part in a less disastrous assault. The Sixth was stationed at Port Hudson until March 11, 1864, where 247 men re-enlisted, a sufficient number of veterans to preserve the organization. It started for Michigan under command of Col. Edward Bacon, and after arriving at Kalamazoo, was furloughed for thirty days. Having again re-assembled it returned to the South, arriving at Port Hudson on the 11th of May, with a large number of recruits. On the 6th of June, it was ordered to Morganza and remained there until the 24th, when it was ordered to Vicksburg. From that point it went to St. Charles, Ark. After the siege of Port Hudson, the Sixth had been made an artillery regiment, but it was now attached to an infantry regiment. Remaining but a short time at St. Charles, the regiment returned to Morganza, where, for a short time, it was employed as engineers, but was soon after returned to duty as heavy artillery. The regiment was present at the bombardment and surrender of Fort Morgan, Ala., but arrived too late to participate. Almost the entire service of the Sixth was rendered in the extreme Southern States. On the 1st of November, 1864, Col. Charles E. Clarke, commanding, it was stationed in Alabama. Companies A, B, D, G and K garrisoned Fort Morgan and Fort Gaines, Dauphin Island, Mobile Bay, while the other companies were detached in December and joined an expedition against Mobile. After a fine career, the regiment came North at the close of the war, and was paid off and discharged at Jackson, Mich., September 5, 1865. The Sixth, during its term of service, met the enemy at Sewell's Point, Va., March 5, 1862; Fort Jackson, La., April 25, 1862; Vicksburg, Miss., May 20, 1862; Grand Gulf, Miss., May 27, 1862; Amite River, Miss., June 20, 1862; Baton Rouge, La., August 5 and 7, 1862; Bayou Teche, La., January 14, 1863; Ponchatoula, La., March 24, 25 and 26, 1863; Barataria, La., April 7, 1863; Tickfaw River, La., April 12, 1863; Amite River, Miss., May 7, 1863; Ponchatoula, La., May 16, 1863; siege of Port Hudson, May 23 to July 8, 1863; Tunica Bayou, La., November 8, 1863; Ashton, Ark., July 24, 1864; Fort Morgan, Ala., August 23, 1864; Spanish Fort, Ala., April, 1865; Fort Blakely, Ala., April, 1865; Fort Huger, Ala., April, 1865; Fort Tracey, Ala., April, 1865; siege of Mobile, Ala., from March 20 to April 12, 1865.

The total enrollment of the Sixth was 1,957 officers and men; its losses 542; of which 2 officers and 43 men were killed in action; died of wounds, 21 men; and of disease, 6 officers and 470 men.

THE TWELFTH MICHIGAN VOLUNTEER INFANTRY.

A large number of Cass County men were in this regiment. Company A, raised by Capt. Joseph Harper of Cassopolis, was composed almost entirely of men from this county. They were enlisted at Cassopolis, in the fall of 1861, and the company was organized at Niles, which place was selected as the place of rendezvous for the Twelfth Regiment, in the spring of 1862. Charles A. Van Riper was First Lieutenant, and David M. McLelland Second Lieutenant.

The Twelfth completed its organization, and was mustered into service, on March 5, 1862, with a strength of 1,000 officers and men. The regiment moved from Niles, on the 18th of March, taking the route to St. Louis, from whence it was hurried forward by steamer, by the Mississippi, Ohio and Tennessee Rivers, reaching Pittsburg Landing in time to take part in the important engagement, fought at that place on the 6th and 7th of April. The Colonel commanding was Francis Quinn, of Niles. The regiment was assigned to Col. Peabody's brigade of Gen. Prentiss' division, and was one of the first regiments attacked by the enemy, suffering a severe loss. The battle of Shiloh was an important event in the history of the Twelfth. During April and May, it remained at Pittsburg Landing, and in June and July was in Jackson, Tenn. In August, it was stationed at Bolivar, in the same State. Under command of Col. Graves, the regiment was on picket duty, near the field of action, at Iuka on September 2, and was in the battle of Metamora, on the Hatchie River, October 5, with loss, and was complimented in the report of Gen. Hurlburt for efficiency and bravery in the action. The other engagements with the enemy, in which the Twelfth took part, were at Middleburg, Tenn., December 24, 1862; Mechanicsville, Miss., June 4, 1863; siege of Vicksburg, Miss., June and July, 1863; siege of Little Rock, Ark., August and September, 1863; Clarendon, Ark., June 26, 1864; Gregory's Landing, September 4, 1864.

The regiment was, for some time after the close of active hostilities, engaged in guarding public property in Arkansas, but came north, in February, 1866, and on the 6th of March, the men were paid off and discharged at Jackson, Mich. The total membership of the regiment was 2,325, and its losses 432, of which number 1 officer and 23 men died of wounds; 28 men were killed in action; 3 officers and 377 men died of disease.

THE NINETEENTH MICHIGAN VOLUNTEER INFANTRY.

Company A of this regiment, Joel H. Smith, Captain, was composed almost wholly of Cass County men, and there were many in other companies of the regiment. The First Lieutenant, George T. Shaffer, of Calvin, arose to the position of Colonel. The Second Lieutenant was Reuben B. Larzelere. The company was organized in Dowagiac, in September, 1862.

The Nineteenth Regiment was assigned to the Second Congressional District to be recruited in the counties of Branch, St. Joseph, Cass, Berrien, Kalamazoo, Van Buren and Allegan. Recruiting was commenced July 15, 1862. The camp of the Nineteenth was at Dowagiac, and the Hon. Henry C. Gilbert was its commandant and charged with the organization of the regiment. The regiment broke camp September 14, and in command of Col. Gilbert, took its route to Cincinnati, its strength being 995 officers and men. It was attached to the first division of the Army of the Ohio, and was stationed in Kentucky October, November and December. On the 1st of January, 1863, the regiment was stationed at Danville, and belonged to Col. Coburn's brigade, Baird's division, Army of Kentucky. This army having been transferred to the department of the Cumberland as a "reserve corps," the Nineteenth moved with its brigade to Nashville, where it arrived February 7, proceeding thence to Franklin. On the 4th of March, with 600 cavalry and 200 additional infantry, it took part with its brigade in a reconnaissance in force. After a march of four miles, skirmishing began with the enemy's scouts and advanced pickets, but the rebels retiring the brigade encamped, the Nineteenth having lost in the skirmish one wounded. The march having been resumed, the enemy was met upon the following day in force, at Thompson's Station, nine miles from Franklin. The Nineteenth with others fought stubbornly, against immense odds, repulsing attack after attack, struggling bravely but without hope. Defeat being inevitable, they finally surrendered. The engagement was sanguinary. At times the contest was severe and the fighting terrific. Three charges were made by the enemy and gallantly repulsed. In one charge the Nineteenth captured the colors of the Fourth Mississippi and several prisoners. The surrender did not occur until after five hours of fighting. The rebel force proved to be the entire cavalry force of Bragg's army, 18,000 strong, under Gen. Van Dorn. The Nineteenth went into the action with 572 officers and men, of which number 113 were killed and wounded. Such was the "baptism of fire" which this regiment received. The regiment was re-organized at Camp Chase, Ohio, and on the 8th of June, 1863, left Columbus, arriving at Nashville on the 11th. It took part in the advance on Tallahoma in June. On the 23d of July, the regiment was ordered to Murfreesboro, and went upon garrison duty in the fortifications. From this time on till the close of its service, the Nineteenth took part in the following engagements: Nashville & Chattanooga Railroad, Tenn., October 5, 1863; Resaca, Ga., May 15, 1864; Cassville, Ga., May 19, 1864; New Hope Church, Ga., May 25, 1864; Golgotha, Ga., June 15, 1864; Culps Farm, Ga., June 22, 1864; Peach Tree Creek, Ga., July 20, 1864; siege of Atlanta, Ga., July 22 to September 2, 1864; Savannah, Ga., December 11, 18, 20, 21, 1864; Averysboro, N. C., March 16, 1865; Bentonville, N. C., March 19, 1865.

The entire membership of the regiment was 1,238, of which it lost 237 men, as follows: 4 officers and 50 men killed in action; 3 officers and 38 men died of wounds, and 142 of disease.

THE FIRST REGIMENT MICHIGAN CAVALRY.

Company M, of this organization, was from this county, and there were a considerable number of Cass men scattered through the regiment.

The First Cavalry commenced recruiting August 21, 1861, at Camp Lyon, near Detroit, the work of organization being carried on by Thornton F. Broadhead, afterward Colonel of the regiment. The First was mustered into service on the 13th of September, 1861, with 1,144 officers and men on the rolls. On the 29th, it left Camp Lyon, under orders to proceed to Washington; lay in camp at Frederick, Md., a considerable portion of the winter, and its principal service following was in the Shenandoah Valley, in the Upper Potomac Valley and near the eastern slopes of the Blue Ridge. The regiment engaged with the enemy at Winchester, Va., March 23, 1862; Middletown, Va., March 25, 1862; Strassburg, Va., March 27, 1862; Harrisonburg, Va., April 22, 1862; Winchester, Va., May 24, 1862; Orange Court House, Va., July 16, 1862; Cedar Mountain, Va., August 9, 1862; Bull Run (second), Va., August 30, 1862; Occoquan, Va., February —, 1863; Thoroughfare Gap, Va., May 21, 1863; Greenwich, Va., May 30, 1863. After a winter of grand guard duty in front of Washington, the First was assigned to the Michigan Cavalry Brigade, of which the gallant Custer was Commander, and its services were from that time chiefly rendered with the brigade.

CHAPTER XIX.

CASS COUNTY IN THE WAR OF THE REBELLION.

Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Ninth and Eleventh Cavalry—First Light Artillery—Fourteenth Battery—Infantry Organizations—The Ninth, Eleventh, Thirteenth, Fourteenth, Fifteenth, Sixteenth, Seventeenth, Twenty-fourth, Twenty-fifth, Twenty-eight and Thirtieth—The One Hundred and Second U. S. Colored Infantry—Cass County Men in Miscellaneous Organizations.

IN the foregoing chapter have been given the rosters of all of the full companies from Cass County, together with very brief histories of the regiments to which they were assigned. In the present chapter appears the roster of Cass County soldiers in miscellaneous organizations of the infantry, cavalry and artillery service. Great care has been exercised in the compilation of this roster. It contains every name and fact procurable from the Adjutant General's office, at Lansing. The lists have also been verified in all cases where it was practicable by members of the companies to which they have reference. If the roster as here presented is incomplete or inaccurate (as it doubtless is in some degree), the fact is attributable to the neglect of officers, whose duty it was to return full and complete lists to the Adjutant General.

CHAPTER XX.

THE PIONEER SOCIETY.

Its Organization—Constitution and By-Laws—Annual Picnics—List of Officers from 1873 to 1881 Inclusive—An Incident of the Meeting of 1881—Roster of Members—Age, Nativity and Date of Settlement—Flourishing Condition of the Society.

WE make no apology for presenting a very full history of the Cass County Pioneer Society. Very nearly 600 names have been subscribed to its constitution, and we say no more than what is obvious to every reader when we state that its membership exceeds, by a considerable number, that of any organization in the county. It is moreover the largest and most flourishing pioneer society in the State of Michigan, and the interest which is felt in its affairs is attested by the immensity of the attendance at the annual re-union picnics.

The society was organized on the 9th of October, 1873, at a meeting, held in Cassopolis pursuant to call, at which about 200 persons were present. This was a large attendance, and indicated quite a remarkable degree of interest. Over seventy pioneers put in an appearance at the morning session. Hon. George Newton, of Volinia, was made temporary Chairman, and Hon. A. B. Copley, of the same Township, was chosen as Secretary. Joseph Smith, of La Grange, moved the appointment of a committee, consisting of one gentleman from each township, to report on rules of organization and order of business, and the following were elected, viz.: A. B. Copley, of Volinia; P. B. White, of Wayne; J. A. Ruddick, of Silver Creek; Uzziel Putnam, Sr., of Pokagon; Joseph Smith, of La Grange; John Nixon, of Penn; B. F. Rudd, of Penn; George Meacham, of Porter; Amos Northrup, of Calvin; George B. Turner, of Jefferson; Joseph L. Jacks, of Ontwa and David R. Stevens, of Mason. The Townships of Marcellus, Milton and Howard were not represented. In the afternoon, when the attendance was increased to 200, the committee reported for permanent Chairman Uzziel Putnam, Sr., of Pokagon (the first white settler of the county) and for Secretaries C. C. Allison and William H. Mansfield. They also recommended that a committee of one be appointed from each township, with leave to sit during the winter, and adopt a constitution and by-laws, which they should report at a picnic to be held in June of the following year, at the fair grounds at Cassopolis. Subsequently, this action was amended, it being moved that the committee should report at an adjourned meeting to be held four weeks later. The following gentlemen were appointed, viz.: Abijah Huyck, of Marcellus; Reuben Henshaw, of Volinia; P. B. White, of Wayne; J. A. Ruddick, of Silver Creek; Uzziel Putnam, Jr., of Pokagon; Daniel S. Jones, of La Grange; John Nixon, of Penn; E. H. Jones, of Newburg; Horace Thompson, of Porter; George T. Shaffer, of Calvin; George B. Turner, of Jefferson; William H. Doane, of Howard; William H. Olmstead, of Milton; I. G. Bugbee, of Ontwa; D. R. Stevens, of Mason. A committee was also appointed to gather the history of the county, and, after some interesting remarks by Uzziel Putnam, Sr., in which he related his experience as a pioneer, the meeting was adjourned.

The adjourned meeting was held November 6. The
