FOREWORD

This book is published pursuant to the statute which states that one of the duties of the County Superintendent of Schools is to furnish, previous to the third Monday in July each year, to the township clerk in each township of the county, and to each of the officers of each school district in the county, a list of all persons authorized to teach in the county at large during the preceding year.

TEN THINGS A BOARD MEMBER CAN DO TO IMPROVE INSTRUCTION

1. The school board as a whole can employ teachers who have given evidence that they are prepared to render good instructional service. This would disqualify the poorer graduates of our teacher training classes and would reward conscientious efforts of teachers.
2. Individual board members can help to see that the county school superintendent's office is given adequate support and cooperation.
3. School officers should consult the teacher on all instructional matters. This means that the teacher should be invited to board meetings and that the teacher should be asked during the year to make a list of instructional materials which he finds lacking in the school.
4. The school officers should see that the physical needs of the school building are always cared for early enough so that instructions will not be delayed or interfered with when school is reopened.
5. When a new teacher is employed, some board member should take the initiative in seeing that the school is furnished with the necessary instructional items. The county school superintendent and the new teacher should both be consulted in this case.
6. Board members should help the teacher in organizing parent groups or at least in seeing to it that the people of the community have several group meetings during each year.

7. School board members should advise the teacher as to parent and neighborhood conflicts. Such device should not go beyond tipping off the teacher. It is the business of the teacher to make decisions as to what should be done about such matters, but teachers do appreciate information.
8. School officers should ask the teacher to keep them informed concerning instructional developments. A teacher should be encouraged to supply bulletins, reading references and advise the board concerning new developments in the field of instruction.
9. The Board should encourage the teacher to attend professional meetings and to continue professionalization. Salary increases in some cases should be given for professional improvement. It is a real favor to a teacher to be urged to improve himself, as teachers easily get the idea that the board is satisfied.
10. Board members should explain to citizens all attempts of the teacher to improve instruction. This means that the school board and the teachers should both be aware of modifications. This probably means that there should be more board meetings. There is no surer guarantee of improved instruction than an active board of education which is willing to go along with the profession in improving instruction for the children.
