CEMETERIES IN PROCESS

Ruth Kaiser, coordinator

An attempt to get volunteers on Wednesday produced a small but faithful crew. There were times when it would take two people an hour to finish one row. We even resorted to a crow bar so that we could lift stones which had fallen face down.

Progress has been slow. Each time the clerk's records are entered on a computer and checked with the stone readings. A second computer print-out then is checked with the transcribers notes. Invariably, there are still more questions to be checked a second time. Before yours truly took off for the south, time ran out for the proof-readers. Now we have three cemeteries in various stages of preparation.

In Clarendon Township: All the stones in Cook's Prairie have been checked at least once but the print-out has not received a final proof. The West Clarendon cemetery is 2/3 complete, the newer section remains to be done.

In Clarence Township the records of Clarence Center provided by Ken Stone have been entered into the computer but have not been rechecked.

From your Editors:

West Clarendon Cemetery in Clarendon Twp., Calhoun Co., MI and Cook's Prairie in Clarendon Twp., Calhoun Co., will be published summer 1995.

CCGS GENERAL MEETING - VFW HALL, MARSHALL MI
TUESDAY 24 JANUARY 1995

Sixty-three members and guests were engrossed in the informative program given by Pat Geyer and Val Radee about their "In Search of Ancestors" genealogy trip to London England. Which was under the direction of Gordon and Carolyn Casper, professional genealogists. Gordon is an instructor at Brigham Young University and Carolyn does genealogy research and both are involved with Elderhostel genealogy programs.

The ladies were privy to special tours not available to general researchers. Pat and Val explained the process of research in four main British repositories of records.

St. Catherine's House; which contains births, marriages, and deaths since 1837. Copies can be purchased if ancestor is found.

The Public Record Office with its miles and miles of shelving containing; wills before 1858, nonconformist Registers, Court Records and the largest collection of maps in the world. Census searching is available at the PRO, but one must know the address of their ancestor in order to locate them in the Census.

Somerset House, with miles of shelving contain probate records since 1858 and where the Royal records are kept in a green metal box with padlock and not available to the general public. All other records are open to the public.

After one has research at the above three, than resources are available at the Society of Genealogists. Their records date prior to 1837. One must join the Society in order to use the records. The materials are on open shelves for people to use. Maps, city directories and early published Parish records are available.

Both Pat and Val stressed the importance of doing research here prior to taking a trip and to have a goal in mind of what you want to look for. They pointed out many difficulties. They displayed pamphlets and books on helping with British research, and passed out stacks of copies of information they had collected.

The 31 members and 32 guests were from the following cities: 27 from Battle Creek; 17, Marshall; 5, Albion, 4, Jackson; 2, Springfield; 2, Union City; 1, Homer, 1, Athens; and two unknown. During the business meeting prior to the program guests were asked to identify themselves. Sheets to sign if interested in a possible trip to Salt Lake City or a computer user group were passed around.

Cookies, punch and coffee were served allowing members and guests to become acquainted and to ask questions of the speakers.
